

Based on the current live website structure, the wireframe appears to be built as a single-page agency experience with a few service-specific pages attached. Here's the likely information architecture and section hierarchy. (See Tusk Creative Agency)

HOME

Current Homepage Wireframe

SECTION 0 — Navigation

LOGO

Content
Influencer
Web & Tech
About Career

[Start Project]

Observation:

Navigation is service-first.

Not buyer-first.

A founder thinks:

- Work
- Results
- Pricing
- About

Not:

- Content
- Influencer
- Web

This is a subtle conversion leak. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

SECTION 1 — Hero

Current structure:

OWN. BUILD. RENT.
DISTRIBUTION FOR AMBITIOUS BRANDS

Description

Start Project CTA

Client Logos

Visual:

- Retro camera
- Industrial design
- Large typography

Strength:

Looks premium.

Weakness:

What SCA does is still unclear after reading it. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

SECTION 2 — Services

Current headline:

One distribution engine.
Four operating modes.

Contains:

Content
Creators
Web & Tech
Campaigns

Each card links outward.

Current wireframe:

Content
---------	--

Creators
----------	--

Web
-----	--

Campaign
----------	--

Issue:

These are internal agency departments.

Not client outcomes. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

SECTION 3 — Camera Framework

Current metaphor:

Lens
Body
Screen

Lens = Strategy

Body = Production

Screen = Distribution

Visualized through a camera system. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

Wireframe:

Lens
Body
Screen

This is effectively your process section.

Issue:

Too conceptual.

Too much cognitive effort.

SECTION 4 — Featured Work

Contains four projects.

Current layout:

Project Card
Project Card

Project Card
Project Card

Examples:

- Ambar Coffee
- FIRVT
- DevKnight
- Fevistik

Each includes:

- Category
- Short description
- View Case

Issue:

Looks attractive.

Contains very little proof. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

SECTION 5 — Case Method

Current layout:

Problem

Approach

Output

Learning

Wireframe:

1 Problem

2 SCA Approach

3 Output

4 Learning

This section explains how case studies are presented. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

Issue:

Explains methodology before proving results.

A buyer wants:

Results

How you got them

Not:

Framework

Maybe results

SECTION 6 — About

Current structure:

SCA exists for brands
that are too good to stay quiet

Long-form studio description

Topics:

- Small team
- Close collaboration
- Creative distribution

Issue:

No founder faces.

No leadership.

No credibility anchors. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

SECTION 7 — Visual Register

Gallery section.

Contains:

BTS
Product
Studio
Web
OOH
Brand

Essentially a moodboard.

Wireframe:

Image

Image

Issue:

Adds aesthetic value.

Adds little sales value.

Could be shortened dramatically. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

SECTION 8 — Final CTA

Current:

Ready to build a brand people actually notice?

Start Project
See Work

Then newsletter.

Then footer. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)

What Is Missing Entirely

From a BD perspective, these sections don't exist at all:

Missing Section 1

Who We Work With

D2C
FMCG
HoReCa
Real Estate

No industry qualification exists.

Missing Section 2

Results

12M+
Views Generated

150+
Campaign Assets

40+
Shoot Days

25+
Brands Served

No numbers exist anywhere.

Missing Section 3

Testimonials

Founder Quote

CMO Quote

Marketing Head Quote

Currently absent.

Missing Section 4

Founders

Sarthak
Melbin

No visible leadership layer. (LinkedIn)

Missing Section 5

Engagement Models

Launch

Scale

Retainer

No buying framework exists.

Missing Section 6

Why SCA

The site never explicitly answers:

Why Seetusk?

vs

Why another agency?

That comparison should be visible.

If Rebuilt for BD

The ideal homepage wireframe would likely become:

1 Hero
2 Social Proof
3 What We Do
4 Results
5 Case Studies
6 Industries
7 Why Seetusk
8 Founders
9 Testimonials
10 FAQ
11 CTA

Current homepage is roughly:

Hero
Services
Philosophy
Work
Methodology
About

Moodboard

CTA

The existing structure is optimized for brand perception and creative positioning.

The missing layer is sales conversion, which is why the site feels like a premium studio portfolio rather than a revenue-generating business development asset. (SeeTusk Creative Agency)
